

Corrugated Plastic Sheet - Material Safety Data Sheet

Product Identification	Biplax
Chemical Name	Polypropylene-polyethylene copolymer
Physical state and appearance	twin wall sheet thickness : 2 - 8 mm / weight : 250 - 1800 gr/m²
Physical properties
Melting point	160-175°C
Softening range	145-155°C
Decomposition temperature	> 300°C
Reactions with other materials	Chemically inert material, no special precautions required
Transport & storage
Freight classification	Not classified
Storage	It is required to store at ambient temperature, protected from sunlight, and away of any inflammable material.
Handling & precautions
Handling	Biplax is a polymeric substance with high molecular weight & its handling involves no risk for the health of operators.
Inhalation	No emission of dangerous fumes at room temperature.
Ingestion	The resin itself is considered to be physiologically inert, but certain additives could be harmful. Avoid inhalation.
Fire & explosion hazard information
Auto ignition temperature	> 360°C
Combustion properties	H₂O and CO₂ will be formed (Biplax non flame-retardant)
Fire extinguishing agents	Water, fog, foam, CO₂, powder, etc...
Toxicological information	Biplax is biologically inert and does not harm the environment. The used pigments are formed without any heavy metal. On demand additives can be added, suitable for food contact.
